In Preparation for Sunday

You may have noticed as you read the gospels that each gospel writer is unique. For example, Mark is short and to the point. On Sunday we will hear a story from Mark. Actually the passage is two stories, one story sandwiched in the middle of the other. This is another unique trait of Mark's writing. The passage begins with Jesus' encounter with a synagogue leader named Jairus whose daughter was at death's door. As Jesus is traveling with Jairus to his house he encounters a woman who has suffered from an illness for 12 years. Jesus heals the woman and continues on his way, arriving at Jairus' house to raise his daughter from death.

This Mark "sandwich" also offers us an example of the two ends of society. Jairus has high status while the hemorrhaging woman is from the fringes of society. Yet, Jesus shows no difference between them. He cares for both of them and their status is of no concern to Jesus. Jesus' concern is wholeness, restoration and life.

On Sunday we will dig into this Mark "sandwich." The stories are found in Mark 5:21-43. The title of the message is "Come to Jesus and Live." I look forward to worshipping with you.

See you Sunday,
Kristy
